

Situational Awareness

Will you recognize the pre-threat indicators to avoid becoming another crime statistic?

In a world full of increasing distractions and rising violence, awareness of your surroundings and your ability to identify pre-threat indicators is the key to keeping you, your family, and your employees safe. This training, adapted for behavioral health staff, teaches the basic principles of situational awareness before diving deeper into threat detection and the observable indicators that you can be trained to recognize.

Objectives:

- Develop a "left of bang" mindset
- Hone and trust your instincts
- Recognize the signs of impending violence
